

LEHIGH ALUMNI WILL BE ON HAND

Pennsylvania Team Assured of Royal Support Here.

Much interest is being manifested in the football contest between Georgetown and Lehigh University, which is to be staged on the Georgetown field tomorrow. The game is scheduled to begin at 2:30 p. m., and a large attendance is expected.

The Lehigh alumni is largely represented among the residents of the District, and several years ago the local members formed themselves into an organization which is known as the Southern Lehigh Club. Mr. William Howe, '76, and Mr. W. A. Draper, '07, being the president and secretary, respectively, at the present time.

A large delegation of Lehigh students is expected to accompany the team to this city. They will arrive at 6:30 this evening and will put up at the Riggs House.

The visitors will be entertained by the local organization at a smoker at the University Club this evening. It is probable, however, that the coaches will not allow the members of the team to attend this function.

The club has reserved a section of the grand stand on the east side of the field, and this will be filled with enthusiastic representatives and friends of the university.

The line-up of the Lehigh team will be as follows:

HOW I GOT MY START.

By "LARRY" McLEAN,

Best in Baseball.

I always intended to become a professional ball player and finally became one in spite of the fact that they tripped me several times. The folks wanted me to work, but I had an idea I was too strong to work, and spent most of my boyhood playing ball. The records of the school at Newton, Mass., will show I won the championship of the truant league by the time I was fifteen.

Some people think a ball player plays for the money there is in it. I never did. In fact I think I would have been a ball player if they had made me pay to play the game. It was a pleasure for me as a kid to try to outguess batters. That I think is the secret of any catcher's success. He must try to think what he would do if he were at the bat, and then make the pitcher do the opposite thing.

My construction helped me a lot, for I was a big, long-armed boy and they made me catch. I didn't want to catch at all, but there is little pleasure in being hustled in the nose by foul tips or hit on the shins. I wanted to pitch, but there was a fellow named Burke who also wanted to pitch, and after he had licked me a few times I let him pitch and became a catcher, and have remained one ever since—no matter who says I am no catcher.

After that I got on the Newton Athletic Club as a catcher, and caught around Boston and Cambridge. I used to go to the Boston grounds, sit as close as possible and study the way the catchers and pitchers did things. Then I went up to St. John, N. Y., where I happened to play with some wise old fellows who kept showing me a lot about the game.

I never had an idea I was good enough for the leagues. I knew I could hit and catch in the company I was playing with, but I had no idea of getting up into the major leagues until a scout found me and dragged me into the American League. To my surprise I found it just as easy to catch for the big league clubs as for the amateurs, except that I had to learn the batters all over again. I studied them hard, and watched them closely. Once a catcher finds out the weaknesses and strength of batters and their style of play it is easier to catch in the big league than in the bushes.
